Reporter eyewitness to death in the skies

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

MK NEWS reporter Alicia Babaee endured a horror flight when she witnessed a woman die on her plane trip home from holiday.

The plane, travelling from Palma, Majorca to Luton, was forced to make an emergency landing in Barcelona on Monday night after the woman had a fit shortly after take off and stopped breathing.

Passengers said last night they believed the woman had been in hospital weeks earlier suffering from anaemia.

Attempts were made to resuscitate the woman by two passengers – a nurse and an army medic – on the easyJet flight 2278 from Majorca at 11.50pm.

The plane made an emergency landing at Barcelona airport where medics boarded the plane but the woman had already died.

The woman, thought to be British and in her late 30s, was travelling with a man, believed to be her partner, and three children – two of which are understood to be her children including her 12-year-old daughter and a younger son.

Our reporter, who lives in Milton Keynes, was returning from a family holiday and witnessed the tragic incident.

She said: "Before we took off there were three children sitting behind us.

"Not long after we took off we just heard the daughter screaming then the woman had a fit and stopped breathing.

"The little girl came running up the aisle saying it's mummy, it's mummy.

"They did cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) for 45 minutes. Everyone was just watching and praying.

"The staff were telling us that the medics would be there when we landed and everything was going to be alright.

"We had a really bad, rushed emergency landing, then an air hostess came back up towards us and you could tell from her face that the woman was dead.

"They took her body out through the back of the plane so her children wouldn't have to see it. The woman's daughter was hysterical and all the passengers were very concerned."

The 115 passengers disembarked and were forced to stay at the Spanish airport hotel overnight. One, 30-year-old Naomi, a doctor's nurse from Cambridge gave first aid to the woman after she began coughing up blood.

Two medics on board the Boeing 737 took it in turns to give CPR to the woman for more than 45 minutes as the plane was diverted from Luton to Barcelona during the emergency.

Naomi said: "I knew very quickly that she was very seriously ill. She was unconscious and had a very swollen stomach which can be an indication of liver disease.

"She had laboured breathing and her pulse was very low so we took it in turns to give her CPR until the plane could be landed.

"She never regained consciousness."

An airport chaplain was at Luton airport yesterday afternoon to counsel shocked passengers as they arrived home.

People with anaemia travelling on flights have a risk of suffering from hypoxia – a shortage of oxygen in the blood.

In severe cases changes in levels of consciousness, seizures, coma and death occur.

A spokesman for easyJet said: "Two nurses provided assistance to the cabin crew as they attended to her and used the onboard supply of oxygen. We have no information regarding any medical condition the passenger may have been suffering from.

"The passenger became unwell during the flight and the aircraft was immediately diverted to Barcelona where paramedics were in attendance.

"Sadly she passed away. easyJet has offered every support and assistance to her family."

Council rejects longer opening hours at Newton Longville

London waste plans dumped

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

PLANS to allow more London waste to be dumped in the city have been rejected.

A bid to extend the opening hours and expand capacity of the Bletchley Landfill Site were submitted by owners the Waste Recycling Group (WRG) at the council's development control committe on Thursday.

As part of its application for the site at Newton Longville, WRG wanted to build a new waste reception hall at the eastern side of the landfill site towards the Lakes Estate, which would have operated between 4.30am and 7am.

This would enable waste from London, currently tipped in Bedfordshire, to be dumped at the Bletchley site when WRG's site in Bedfordshire reaches capacity next year.

The extended opening hours would have meant people living near the Newton Longville landfill site would have had to endure the sound of lorries passing in the night.

The site currently opens at 7am each morning, and closes at around 6pm.

Nigel Long, leader and chairman of West Bletchley Parish Council, attended the meeting to protest against the plans.

He argued that the application breached planning policy, and that early working on the site would add to current problems with noise and smell.

"The site will go 'live at 4.30am and that will undermine the 'quiet enjoyment' of residents close to the site," he said.

Councillor for Eaton Manor, Reg Edwards, complained about the lack of public consultation.

"I am rather concerned that people are still asking me what it is all about," he said.

He pointed out that many residents live within 200metres of the site, and their wellbeing should be considered.

Councillors also addressed the issue of taking waste from the capital city – the draft South East Plan proposes that Milton Keynes should take 10 per cent of London's waste from 2016.

MK NEWS revealed last February that thousands of tonnes of London's rubbish was already being sent to the WRG's landfill site at Newton Longville without the council's knowledge.

The two Milton Keynes MPs and several councillors have been fighting plans for more waste to be brought to the city.

Cllr for Furzton, Chris Wlliams, said he does not believe Milton Keynes should be taking waste from London.

"We have a limited supply of landfill space and shouldn't be taking waste from anywhere else," he said.

The development control committee concluded that it would refuse this application, along with another for WRG to extend the opening period of the site by seven years from 2022 until 2029.

Members of protest group People Against Landfill Sites (PALS), who have fought the plans since they were submitted three months ago, cheered when the council declared their decision.

WRG, which did not send a representative to the meeting, has the right to appeal.

Trading standards officer Carolyn Downhill gives a talk on the dangers of swallowing small objects to children from Cedars School at Kiln Farm Safety Centre

Be safe at home

TRADING standards officers from MK Council were teaching children how to stay safe in the home this week.

The officers spent three days at the Safety Centre, in Kiln Farm, showing children what dangers to look out for in a life-like model of a home, to mark National Child Safety Week.

More than 200 children from local schools took part.

The students were also given a truncated cylinder to take home to their parents, which shows the size of a child's throat and how big a toy needs to be to pose a choking hazard.

More affordable housing planned

A STUDY of housing in Milton Keynes has prompted dramatic proposals by Milton Keynes Council to provide more affordable housing for low income families to rent.

The Cabinet agreed a new policy after deciding that the amount of social rented housing needs to increase substantially from the current five per cent to meet the city's needs.

The Affordable Housing Supplementary Planning Document claims the council will seek a total of 30 per cent of all new build homes to be affordable, 25 per cent of which will be for social rent.

The remaining five per cent will be affordable homes to buy.

The document does not cover planning applications that have already been approved.

The proposed increase in rented homes was prompted by the dramatic findings of a study of housing needs in Milton Keynes by an independent social research company, Opinion Research Services.

The findings included:

- By 2003 the price of an average property was over 6.3 times average earnings;
- From to 1999 to early 2006 the average house price rose by 136 per cent
- In 2005 fewer than 10 per cent of properties were sold for £80,000 which is around the maximum available to single first time buyers;
- Rents for the cheapest properties in the private sector cost at least double the amount of council or housing association properties.

Cabinet member for housing, Cllr Irene Henderson, said: "Housing is far too expensive for too many people in Milton Keynes.

"The need for affordable housing, especially good quality rented housing has never been greater.

"It is the only realistic way that young people, the homeless and many young families on low incomes can ever hope to be housed. What this study does is to provide us with a firm basis to make sure that house builders and developers provide the affordable homes that are so desperately needed."

Opposition members at the council have called the decision in to be assessed by a cross-party scrutiny panel.

ing an investigation by the force's professional standards department.

Detectives later arrested another officer, 24-year-old Emma Wheatcroft from Milton Keynes.

While the other two officers were released without charge, Wheatcroft was charged with drug related offences and offences under the computer misuse act.

She had her bags packed when she attended Kingston-upon-Thames Crown Court on Friday with her mother, father, brother and two friends.

Labour is wasting the fruit of the money tree

SIR – I write in reference to Sue Long's letter in last week's MK NEWS.

The letter suggested I was 'misleading' people by suggesting that Cllr Nigel Long could have stood down in Whaddon allowing an election to take place in May.

I appreciate Mrs Long will choose to take a different view to everyone else, however that doesn't make Cllr Long's behaviour acceptable.

Cllr Long should have stood down from this political roles immediately upon accepting a new job that stated he must remain politically neutral – after all, it was his choice to accept the job.

It seems pretty obvious to me that if one accepts a politically neutral job, it's going to be difficult to convince a review board that there's no politics involved in being a councillor.

Not only does an appeal waste taxpayers' money, the predictable outcome will waste more taxpayers' money on a bi-election that could have been avoided.

Even for a Labour councillor, there was an obvious solution to this problem.

Cllr Long should have stood down the moment he accepted the new job and appealed against these political restrictions. If he'd won any future appeal, he could have stood for re-election at the next available opportunity.

Yet I can only assume this obvious solution was discarded because the Labour Party believes money grows on trees.

Cash key to teaching immigrants English

SIR – It is very interesting to note that there is a huge influx of foreign pupils recently in Milton Keynes schools and more than thirty languages are spoken in St Paul's Roman Catholic School and in Radcliffe School, Wolverton.

Most of the foreign pupils are concentrated in a handful of schools. This tends to create additional demand for the resources for teaching English in these schools.

After East European countries joined the European common market, there is a sudden influx of East Europeans especially from Poland looking for jobs and most of them do not speak English.

Since Britain has the open door policy in allowing immigrants to come to this country whether they speak English or not, it is creating a serious problem.

Last year local authorities spent £25million, NHS Trusts £55million and courts £31million on translation and interpreters.

Evidence shows foreigners who do not try to learn English in their first six months in the UK are unlikely to ever.

Schools should encourage immigrant parents to attend English classes along with their children and these classes should be held an hour before the beginning or end of the school day.

Since there is going to be shortage of teachers in East European languages, the embassies should provide teachers at a reasonable cost. The new immigrants should not expect the state to provide free English classes. They came here of their own will and they have to pay for it.

In spite of the fact Asian immigrants especially from Bangladesh and Pakistan have been living in this country for nearly three generations, most of the parents do not speak English. They have to depend on interpreters and translators.

The whole issue needs to be addressed at the national level.

Schools in Milton Keynes need extra funding for teaching English to non-English speaking pupils since their number is increasing rapidly.

Excitement and trepidation over boat building plans

George Harlock

SIR – I've been reading about George Harlock's plans for narrowboat manufacture in Wolverton with interest.

As a relatively recent resident in the area, it's energising to watch both the concrete evidence of development and hear plans inspired by Wolverton's unique geographical and historical position.

We moved our sales and marketing agency to Wolverton Mill 18 months ago and now employ close to 200 people.

Having had my eyes opened to the charms and the huge potential of the area I decided to leave Bedfordshire and take up residence in Wolverton six months ago.

The town is blessed with superb proximity to the canal which has until now been underused. Opening up to the canal is going to transform Wolverton over the coming years and a new industry which ties the canal into the town's industrial heritage would enhance and promote the already strong character appreciated by Wolverton residents.

Mr Harlock's plans are hugely ambitious and I love the slightly bombastic titles of The Wolverton Superfactory No 1 Ltd and No 2 Ltd. So far though I have found it hard to establish whether Mr Harlock is a visionary or a dreamer.

I must admit that I find Mr Harlock's association with UKIP troubling, as it may indicate an underlying motivation. A project like this needs passion, but not a fervor to return to a 'golden age'. (And how does UKIP's policy on immigration square with setting up business in a town with such rich cultural diversity?)

It's clear that the future prosperity of the region and the country isn't reliant on reviving our manufacturing heritage or attempting to turn back the clock.

But there has to be room left in the economy for highly skilled workers producing high quality goods – particularly in areas where the emotive issue of being Made in Britain can still have resonance and influence purchasing decisions.

Does anyone else feel the same sense of excitement and trepidation?

Although I don't know the detail I would instinctively love this project to succeed. I unfortunately missed Mr Harlock's presentation on June 14 and I would be interested in hearing the views of anyone who attended.

Nil by mouth –

SIR – What a marvellous exchange between the two MPs representing Milton Keynes in your story about NHS dentists last week, and didn't it highlight perfectly the spin this Labour government continues to produce hoping people actually believe it.

Dr Starkey stood up and admonished her Conservative opponent for claiming that 70,000 people are without access to an NHS dentist in MK, she went on to point out that due to 'further spending' by this Government the figure was in fact 'nil'. How could he mislead in such a fashion?

Having rebuked Dr Starkey for misusing a point of order to raise the issue the Speaker then granted Mr Lancaster a reply, he did not disappoint.

He immediately apologised to the house for quoting an incorrect figure, he had done further research that day and found the figure to be more than 120,000 waiting for access to an NHS dentist.

How completely out of touch can someone be with reality and how damaging this Government is to the NHS.

My wife and I reluctantly accepted defeat a few years ago and now have to pay privately, but what I find disgraceful is we now have to pay for our son – and he is still at school.

Richard Gates
George Inn Place, Stoke Goldington

■ SIR – May I offer my most sincere congratulations to Mark Lancaster MP for highlighting this problem once again with quite a superb performance in the chamber last week.

I thought it incredible that the Labour MP Dr Starkey attemped to rubbish his claims of 70,000 people waiting for an NHS dentist in the Milton Keynes area by saying there were none, only for Mr Lancaster to point out the figure has now risen to 120,000.

It is really disgraceful that this Government came to power quoting '24 hours to save the NHS' only to sit back and make things far worse.

When will Labour MPs finally get their heads out of the sand and observe what is really happening in the real world.

John Brown
Woburn Sands

■ SIR – I was aghast at the glib political attack our Labour MP made in House of Commons the other day.

I am a parent, who, having paid my taxes and my National Insurance all my life, am amazed that I am unable to have a 'free at point of service' National Health Service dentist for my family.

I have to pay a dentist for my son, who is a university student receiving no assistance from this Government, as well as my daughter who is a student.

I would suggest that Phyllis Starkey is totally out of touch with the citizens of Milton Keynes.

Mummified dogs found under shed

A BLETCHLEY man has spoken of his shock after three mummified dogs were found under a shed in his garden.

When Mike Fernell moved into his new bungalow on Stoke Road last month he was not prepared for what he found when he decided to sell the old pigeon loft that was left by the previous owners.

He sold the shed on the internet auction site eBay but when the buyers came round to remove it last weekend they made a grisly discovery.

They found the mummified bodies of three adult whippets in the space beneath the shed.

Mr Farnell, 53, said: "It was a huge shock, especially for the guys who were picking the shed up. They were totally mummified, possibly because it was bone dry underneath the shed. They didn't look like they had been dumped there because they weren't piled up.

"Someone must have lost them."

He called the RSPCA and inspector Claire Ryder came to assess the bodies but there was no fur left on them to identify their colour.

She found no visible injuries and said the bodies could have been there for two or more years.

The carcasses have now been buried by Mr Farnell, who added: "Now I'm worried about what's under the greenhouse!"

The land behind the garden had been previously used by dog walkers and one suggestion is that the dogs might have climbed into the space and become trapped.

But when the inspector found old granules of a toxic substance nearby, she said dogs could have fallen ill after eating them.

Inspector Ryder said: "The dogs have been dead too long to determine the cause of death, but we think it was accidental rather than suspicious.

"However, if anyone's dog has gone missing in the last few years, this find may give them peace of mind as someone could still be wondering what happened to their pet."

Anyone who thinks they may know who the dogs belonged to can contact the RSPCA for more information on 08705 555999.

Codebreaker statue is unveiled at Park

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

BLETCHLEY Park has unveiled a unique statue to commemorate the war hero and mathematical genius Alan Turing.

The monument is a tribute to Turing's work at the heart of the Park's code breaking successes during World War Two and was presented in front during a private function at the Park last night.

The American philanthropist and billionaire Sidney E Frank specially commissioned the internationally renowned sculptor Stephen Kettle to create the life-size statue in October 2005, to champion Turing's memory and achievements.

It weighs one and a half tons and is made from half-a-million pieces of Welsh slate but Mr Frank did not live to see the work completed, dying in 2006 when it had only been built up to Turing's shins.

Director of Bletchley Park, Simon Greenish, said: "Alan Turing is universally recognised as the founding father of the modern computer and one of the pre-eminent unsung intellectual warriors of the twentieth century.

"With the help of the Sidney E Frank Foundation and the brilliance of sculptor, Stephen Kettle, Bletchley Park is now home to an exquisite and magnificent memorial to the genius of Turing."

Although Turing received an OBE for his wartime achievements, he died in 1954 at the age of 41, having received no public recognition of the contribution he made to the outcome of the war and the computer age that was to follow.

He arrived at Bletchley Park on September 1939 where he began pursuing his idea of building a machine that would break the Enigma key.

After helping to break the German Naval Enigma in December 1939 he created the Turing-Welchman Bombe which speeded up the process of breaking into the daily Enigma keys.

Historians agree that the work of the codebreakers effectively helped to shorten the war by two years, saving countless lives.

Lake route OK for new canal

A NEW canal which will run across part of Willen Lake has been given the go ahead by Milton Keynes Council.

The waterway will wind its way across the eastern flank of the city from the Grand Union at Newlands to Broughon Gate near the motorway.

The multi-million pound construction is seen as a major leisure coup for the city and the first piece in a huge canal link between MK and Bedford.

The plan has been shortlisted for a £25 million Lottery handout. If this is achieved the British Waterways Trust proposes raising the remaining £5 million or more through commercial sponsors, grants and public appeal.

Design work has been funded through a £250,000 Lottery grant awarded to the Bedford-Milton Keynes Waterways Trust.

Members of the development control committee heard on Thursday how the 6.5 kilometre canal would cut across the eastern end of Willen Lake with a pontoon proposed to separate the waterway from the remainder of the lake.

The plans were recommended subject to a number of conditions including ecological studies and flood risk assessments.

An artist's impression of MK's 'West End'

MK's 'West End' at night

YOU'VE heard of London's West End - now see Milton Keynes' version.

Places for People, one of the UK's largest property management and development groups, has been selected as the preferred developer for phase one of West End on land between the central railway station and the main shoppign centre.

Six hundred and fifty townhouses and apartments which will include some retail and office space will be built there.

John Lewis, regional director for English Partnerships Eastern England and Milton Keynes said: ""Central Milton Keynes requires a fresh approach to 21st century urban living and we are looking forward to working with Places for People todeliver our vision for the creation of a city centre of international importance."

David Shaw, Director for Development and Procurement for Places for People said: "This represents a golden opportunity to redevelop the centre of Milton Keynes. And create a dynamic and vibrant urban neighbourhood that is built to the highest environmental standard.

"We are committed to working with English Partnerships and the local community and believe this exciting development can act as a catalyst for the wider regeneration of the area and serve as a beacon for international city living."

Shopping centre revamp on hold

PLANS for the multi-million pound revamp of the shopping centre have been withdrawn.

Hermes Real Estate and Prudential stepped back after talks with Central Milton Keynes Board at the 11th hour on Thursday.

The plans were due to be discussed at the Development Control Committee.

They said they had taken account of objections to the plans being submitted in three separate stages, and would return with a combined application later in the year. The plans included re-siting the House of Fraser store and closing of Secklow Gate.

But there has been mounting opposition to the scheme.

What the centre:mk may look like

Last week MK NEWS revealed that the charity 20th Century Society had written to English Heritage asking them to make thecentre:mk a listed heritage building.

Jon Weymouth, director, said the delay was not due to the content of the plans, but concerns raised about the proces of putting them through in three batches.

"Various people made the point that they would like to view it as one," he said.

"This included special interest groups, such as MK Forum and MK Partnership."

"In full consultation with English Partnerships and MK Council we decided it would be better to concede to these requests."

All three batches will now be decided together.

No date has been set as consultation has yet to be finished on batch three, though the other two batches are finished.

Teenage boys assaulted

POLICE are appealing for information after two 16-year-old boys were assaulted, one of whom was robbed, on Friday.

At around 11.45pm the boys were walking along Shenley Road, near to the junction of Tweed Drive, when they were attacked by a group of seven or eight youths. After assaulting the boys, the gang ran off with a Samsung D900 mobile phone, worth £150.

One of the youths is chubby, between 5ft 6ins and 5ft 10ins and around 16-years-old. Police also want to speak to two girls who witnessed the attack and were later seen walking away up Tweed Drive.

Detective Sergeant Richard North, of Milton Keynes Police, said: "This was an unprovoked and violent assault by a group of youths on two lads minding their own business as they walked home.

"I am keen to speak to anyone who was in the area that night and saw the group hanging around or who witnessed the attack."

Call DS North via the Police Enquiry Centre on 0845 8 505 505.

Appliance of science

(WARNING DO TRY THIS AT HOME!)

Milton Keynes Science Festival

CALLING all budding scientists get involved in this years Milton Keynes Science Festival.

Milton Keynes will host its first annual science festival from July 6 to 15 as part of the Milton Keynes 40th anniversary celebrations.

Each week in the run up to the exciting event, Milton Keynes Science Festival will team up with MK NEWS to run an Experiment of the Week for you to try at home.

This week's experiment comes from The Open University's Institute of Physics and will show you thermodynamics at work with a bar of soap.

With an adult, simply follow step by step what the science festival robots are doing and read the notes below,

1. This experiment has been tried and tested and is safe but as in any science experiment you can cause accidents by not following instructions Do not heat the soap longer than one minute.

2. When using a microwave remember the contents are very hot immediately after you have heated them. So just as you do with food leave the soap in the microwave for a minute after you have heated it before opening the door and taking it out. You should wear oven gloves when touching the heated soap just as you do when taking out food.

3. Soap is usually scented so after heating the soap there will be a residual smell in the microwave. Therefore wipe over the internal surfaces before your next meal.

With more than 50 events lined up, the festival will showcase some of city's world-class scientific and technical achievements and everyone will be able to learn about Science, Engineering and Technology (SET). The two weeks will be packed with a series of exciting, entertaining and informative events and activities held in various locations around the city involving local schools, colleges, universities, societies and businesses.

Council to probe repeat of boss's growth statement

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Council has passed a motion to review a controversial statement on city growth made by chief executive John Best.

As revealed by MK News last week, his words have been branded as 'deplorable' by Olney councillor Debbie Brock.

At last week's full council meeting she asked councillors to agree to a motion to find out how an admitted breach of council policy can happen and how it could be quoted again in another paper.

The statement, which was originally made in a letter from the chief executive to a Government advisor in June 2006, was re-quoted in a paper on growth presented at a meeting of the manager's assembly at the council on February 7 this year.

The paragraph read: 'Community engagement is time and resource consuming, which is difficult when faced with the tight time-scales of the growth agenda. MKC members' desire to involve the community in shaping its own future is therefore a frustration in the imperative for speedy and efficient delivery of growth'.

The Olney councillor originally raised the issue at a full council meeting in March. She claims the words criticise councillors for effectively holding up the growth agenda.

The motion, passed on Tuesday June 12, asks the chief executive and leader of the council to present a written report to the chairman of the Performance Review Panel explaining how and by whom the letter had been produced.

It also asks them to make all previous correspondence from the chief executive's office relating to the issue of growth in Milton Keynes over the previous five years available to the panel, and to any other interested member, within two weeks, and to reaffirm its commitment to full community consultation on all significant matters affecting the growth and development of Milton Keynes.

The chairman of the Performance Review Panel will then present any findings to the full council.

Speaking to MK NEWS last week, Mr Best said he was surprised the issue had been raised again, but would respond fully to the decision of the council.

Council leader Isobel McCall claims Cllr Brock is putting into place an expensive investigation about nothing.

KEEPING M1 MOTORISTS MOVING
ON THE ROAD WITH THE TRAFFIC OFFICERS - SEE PAGE 12

Keeping the M1 motorway safe and motorists moving

On the move: Traffic officers Ian Jobson and Mark Doggett

Highways Agency traffic officers based at Toddington Service Station are celebrating the end of their first year patrolling the stretch of the M1 between Junctions 7 and 14. Since officers took to the motorway in May 2006 they have attended more than 18,500 incidents. They spend their time – sometimes putting their lives at great risk – to make sure the M1 is as safe and as free from congestion as possible. LUI STRACCIA went on an hour-long 'ride-out' with two officers to find out what their job involves

WE had not even climbed inside our Discovery 3 Land Rover before traffic officer Mark Doggett received a call telling him a lorry on the M1 needed one of its tyres replacing.

Within minutes Mr Doggett, fellow traffic officer Ian Jobson and I were on the motorway and on our way to the scene.

When we got there the lorry was parked on the hard shoulder.

This is an incident which, before May last year, the police would have attended, probably using two cars with accompanying officers.

It is exactly the sort of thing that Highways Agency traffic officers can deal with by themselves, allowing the police to get on with their primary job of catching criminals.

We got out of the 4x4 and stood at the side of the motorway while Incident Support Unit (ISU) officers set up a rolling roadblock.

Lane one needed to be closed off because the lorry needed an off-side (nearest the passing traffic) tyre replacing, which usually takes ten to 15 minutes.

Traffic was safely stopped within minutes, with cones brought out to narrow the motorway to two lanes.

Once officers were satisfied the tyre changer could do his job safely, the traffic was quickly allowed to flow again.

All the while ISU officers were explaining to drivers at the front of the queue what they were doing and why they were doing it.

Mr Doggett said: "We get a lot of criticism for shutting down lanes.

"We get abuse from drivers, as do ISU officers, for doing what we're doing. I've even heard stories of ISU officers having things thrown at them.

"But it's all for drivers' safety. It's better than somebody being tragically killed and then having to close the whole carriageway down for six hours simply because we have not shut a lane down for 15 minutes."

There are 35 traffic officers based at the Highways Agency outstation at Toddington Services, which operates 24/7, with three crews on during the day and two at night.

There are around 100 incidents a day on average for staff to deal with along the stretch between Junctions 7 and 14 of the M1.

These could range from a piece of metal on lane three to a major incident.

Mr Jobson said: "It's a very good job which I find enjoyable because you never know what's going to happen, and because you're making sure people are safe."

A total of 69 people died on the shoulder of England's motorways last year.

Mr Jobson added: "One of the more bizarre incidents involved a naked man dancing on the edge of a bridge.

"Another time a family of five stopped on the hard shoulder to let one of their children go to the toilet - barely 100 yards short of a service station - putting the whole family at risk."

While we're out Mr Jobson even got a call telling him a driver had actually stopped in lane one - a live traffic lane - on the M1 wanting directions for Luton Airport.

A traffic patrol car quickly parked up behind the car and told the driver he was putting his life and the lives of fellow drivers at risk.

He said: "Some of these things you just couldn't make up if you tried.

"Only in the event of an emergency should you stop on the hard shoulder - never in a live lane.

"Park close to an emergency phone on the hard shoulder if you can, getting out of the car away from the motorway as much as possible, and always watch the traffic.

"That would be our big safety message to all drivers and passengers."

People can come from a variety of backgrounds and become a traffic officer.

To illustrate the point, Mr Jobson used to work in retail, while Mr Doggett was formerly a coach driver.

The Highways Agency is always looking for new recruits, and anyone interested in becoming a traffic officer can visit www.highways.gov.uk for more details.

Making a tax-efficient Will now, could save your family many thousands of pounds in the future.

Increasing numbers of people, including homeowners, business people and investors, have assets that will be affected by inheritance tax upon their death.

The rapid rise in house prices mean that more and more people's estates will pay inheritance tax.

Making a will puts you in control and helps you to provide lasting security for those who depend on you. Without a will, those who depend on you financially may receive nothing, or your bequest may be held for them in trust unnecessarily. This can leave your loved ones having to make a claim to the Court for financial provision and unnecessary inheritance tax going to the Inland Revenue.

Nil rate band discretionary trust wills are of particular importance for married couples and offer great scope to mitigate the impact of Inheritance Tax on your Estate. This tax saving arises by the solicitor attempting to ensure that each spouse utilises their own nil rate band allowance, currently £300,000. A correctly drafted and administered will can offer a potential Inheritance Tax saving of £120,000.

We are experienced in advising clients on reducing the liability to tax on their estates, both through lifetime arrangements and under their wills, and in preparing trusts and other documents. We are happy to work with other professional advisors, believing in a 'joined up' approach to achieve the best results for the client.

We have specialist solicitors available at all our offices dealing with wills, ranging from simple wills for individuals and married couples to more complex wills including inheritance tax planning, whatever your circumstances.

We also support The Institute of Cancer Research Will for Free Scheme.

Queen awards woman builder

MBE for the founder and boss of Bletchley construction company

A WOMAN who has helped break the stereotypical image of building has been awarded with an MBE.

Janet Shelley, founder and managing director of Women Builders Ltd, Bletchley, created the company in 2003 following her own desire to qualify in plastering skills.

She realised the increasing potential to encourage more women into the construction industry and the difficulties women face in securing training and job placement in what is recognised as a male-dominated industry.

The company employs a largely female workforce that provides a construction and maintenance service in the Milton Keynes, Bucks and North Oxfordshire areas.

"My aim is to provide skills training for women who want to pursue a career in construction as well as those facing a career change or whose circumstances justify the necessary skills to carry out their own home maintenance tasks," says Janet, "Armed with these skills we can make a real difference to the equality of opportunity for women; a skilled worker is after all a skilled worker, regardless of gender."

The company's training school is located at the Bletchley HQ where 'Jobs for the Girls', a programme of six-week training courses in building maintenance, new build, carpentry and plumbing are carried out followed by work placement in local construction companies. Janet achieved support from the European Social Fund to make this training provision which is free to students.

Women Builders is supported by the Construction Industry Training Board (CITB) and SummitSkills, the Sector Skills Council for Construction through which employers have a direct route to influence strategic planning for skills and training.

"We receive calls from women all over the country who need our facilities but we are unable to help them all," added Janet, "We hope to expand our training and construction services with the goal to being a national service provider."

Speaking about her award the 42-year-old mother of two from Mursley, said: "This is a very exciting honour which I have achieved with the help of many contributors and organisations and I never forget how important these relationships are.

"Four years ago I was successfully employed in IT, knew nothing about construction, and now it's my life. I want to share my ambitions with other determined women. It's been a major learning curve but I am proof that women do have a place in the construction industry."

Andrew Helby, marketing manager, of Makita UKsays: "We are serious about the raising of construction trades skills and standards and with the Women Builders organisation being a close neighbour it is even more appropriate that we work closely to help Janet achieve her ambitions."

> Four years ago I was successfully employed in IT, knew nothing about construction, and now it's my life. I am proof that women do have a place in the construction industry

Splashing out: Dragon Boat competitors do it for charity

Families paddle for kids' hospice

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

FAMILIES of children at a hospice will be pushing the boat out to raise money.

A team of 16 people from Keech Cottage Children's Hospice, including staff and relatives, will be joining 54 other boats in this year's Milton Keynes Dragon Boat Festival.

The festival takes place at Willen Lake on Sunday and the hospice has been named as this years charity.

Electricity for Business (E4B) has given oe of their two boats to the team at Keech Cottage, and CS Cleaning has supplied their T-shirts.

Nikki Treanor, Keech community nurse for Milton Keynes, said: "Our team is a real mixture of people, including caring, nursing and fundraising staff, and the children's parents and other relatives.

"Relatives of the junior team of MK Lighting are also joining us as we do joint work with the team."

She added that the team spirit during their practice sessions has been wonderful, and they are looking forward to raising as much money as they can for the hospice.

"The hospice takes £2million a year to fund, and 75 per cent of this needs to come from fundraising, so we need to raise as much as possible."

Keech Cottage Children's Hospice cares for more than 150 families with life-limited children living across Milton Keynes, Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire. This includes almost 20 children and their families in Milton Keynes alone.

Care is provided through a community nursing team which works with the children and their families in their own homes, or through care teams at the charity's bright and colourful hospice near Luton.

Each crew participating in the Dragon Boat Festival will be encouraged to raise cash through sponsorship for Keech Cottage Children's Hospice, with a special buffet lunch at the aptly named Dragon Boat restaurant as reward for the team that raises the most.

The annual Dragon Boat Festival raises more than £15,000 on average for good causes each year and organisers, Gable Events, are hoping that this year's event will be one of their most successful fundraisers to date.

No previous experience is required to take part. The ornate 40ft Chinese dragon boats and all racing equipment are provided and each crew of up to 17 people is guaranteed a minimum of three races.

■ For more information and an entry form for the Dragon Boat Festival contact Gable Events on 01780 470718 or visit the Festival website at www.dragonboatfestivals.co.uk/miltonkeynes.

Sporting mascots take to the snow

IF you have never seen a grown man dressed as cow slide down a toboggan run then Milton Keynes is the place for you this weekend.

The Theatre District is hosting the 2007 Mascots Olympics as part of the Big Moo and MK's 40th celebrations.

Mascots from well known football and sporting teams from around the country and MK will be participating in a series of hilarious events on Saturday morning.

At the end of the day only one mascot will be crowned The Theatre District Olympic Champion 2007

Characters from as far afield as Manchester, Sheffield, Halifax, Nottingham, Northampton, Reading, Cheltenham and Yeovil will be joining in the fun.

Events include the Midsummer Place Shoppers Walk, the Enjoy Holidays Rodeo, the Xscape toboggan plunge and the Pauley Landscapes Assault Course – in fact there will be six in total throughout the day testing strength, stamina, sense of humour and courage!

The event is also an opportunity to raise funds for MK Snap, who provide work and life skills for those over 16 with learning disabilities and special needs.

You can join the mascots for a Fitness First warm up session on the Theatre District at 11am then follow the fun throughout the day.

Breath of fresh air at hospital's new gardens

PATIENTS at Milton Keynes hospital will receive a breath of fresh air when six new gardens are opened by the mayor today.

Cllr Mike Barry will unveil six new courtyards that have been transformed by the Creative Courtyards Scheme, managed by MK Arts for Health.

Each of the unique gardens was created by a team of staff, community groups, children, volunteers and artists.

Project manager Sue Quinn said: "These six little oases are for anyone and everyone.

"They offer calm, quiet, fresh air and an escape from the clinical areas nearby."

The £137,000 project got under way last September with support from Milton Keynes General NHS Trust, the Department of Health, the National Lottery and Milton Keynes Community Foundation.

A pair of Siemens Digital Hearing Aids half price

Two hearing aids help you hear more clearly, and they also help you identify where sounds come from. But for many people two aids are simply unaffordable.

Until now. Because during June you can buy a pair of Siemens or Sonic Innovations programmable digital hearing aids for half price or even less. In the ear or completely in the canal hearing aids are included too, and there are also half-price savings on all our Siemens and Sonic Innovations digital hearing aid ranges. 'No' to wind farm

RESIDENTS of Bozeat, Lavendon and Harrold are celebrating after plans for a wind farm at nearby Podington were rejected by Bedford Borough Council.

Graham Mabbutt, pictured, spokesman for BLOT, (Bozeat and Lavendon Oppose the Turbines) said: "This is very good news for the local residents of the villages affected by the plans for 16 wind turbines in the area between Lavendon, Bozeat and Harrold which the developers call Nun Wood.

"The reasons that the planning officers have given for turning down the application for nine wind turbines at Podington are the same as those for rejecting the application at Nun Wood"

"We are hoping that when the plans for Nun Wood go before the planning committees of Bedford, Wellingborough and Milton Keynes Councils that the same recommendations will apply."

The reasons for the Podington rejection included the scale and number of turbines and their impact on the landscape and nearby residents

In addition to these reasons, BLOT claims the 410 feet high turbines planned for Nun Wood would be highly visible from the A509 which is a narrow, fast moving road with hidden dips and bends. This could cause driver distraction.

Mr Mabbutt continued: "Also as has been proved at Burton Latimer (the nearest wind farm site to Milton Keynes) there is insufficient wind to produce economic and environmental benefits. Figures published on the Department of Trade and Industry website show that the turbines at Burton Latimer only produced one fifth of their potential output in their first full year of operation.

"It is the view of BLOT that in this case the Bedford planners and the planning committee members clearly got it right.

"They recognised that the high costs of this project to local residents and the landscape could not be justified by the scant environmental gain. They have served their residents well by reflecting the majority local opinion."

Gatwick rail link boosts E-W route

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

NEW rail plans have boosted the prospects of re-opening the Oxford to Milton Keynes railway, and offer the possibility of a new connection to Gatwick airport.

The regional planning assessment for the Thames Valley Railway, published by the Department for Transport on June 5, says that the planned growth of Milton Keynes will increase the demand for travel between the city and the rest of the Thames Valley area.

It consequently cites improving the links between Milton Keynes and the other regional hubs of Oxford, Aylesbury and Reading as a regional planning priority.

The document backs the plans of the East-West Rail Consortium, which has been aiming to establish a strategic railway connecting East Anglia with Central, Southern and Western England for many years.

The consortium is a group of local authorities and businesses with an interest in improving access to the region and includes MK Council.

The Thames Valley section of East-West Rail would link Milton Keynes with Oxford, via Bicester.

Simon Mortimer, passenger transport officer at MK Council and secretary of the East-West Rail Consortium said local authorities were consulted by the DoT during the assessment, many of whom are members of the consortium.

"We were asked to state what we would really like to see in the area, and emphasised the need for an east to west rail service," he said.

He said he is pleased the consortium's plans feature so highly in the assessment.

"Any help towards the project is good, because it would be an important contribution to the area," he added.

MP for Milton Keynes South West, Dr Phyllis Starkey, who has been campaigning for the rail link, as chairwoman of the East-West Rail Group, in Parliament since she was first elected, has welcomed the news.

"The Government has identified East-West Rail as an important project for linking up the region and has categorised it as a short/medium term priority," she said.

"This is very encouraging news and I will continue to lobby ministers to get the ball rolling and to secure funding."

Also in the plans was the news that the extra platform under construction at Milton Keynes Central Station will make possible a new direct service connecting to Clapham Junction in south London – a journey that would allow travellers to skirt London to reach the south coast and Gatwick Airport.

The service from MK Central direct to Clapham Junction could run hourly from 2008 depending on rolling stock availability.

Work continues alongside CMK railway station for the new platform and track

‘Pod should stay’ – cabbies and cops

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

AN appeal is under way to keep the city’s ‘temporary’ taxi pod in use for another two years.

The pod at Xscape, which issues tickets for taxis to late night revellers, was originally set up as a temporary two-year facility. It was extended by a year and was supposed to have been demolished by January.

In February, Milton Keynes Council’s development control committee refused an application to keep it open for a further two years while a permanent one is built.

They agreed to let the taxi-pod, operated by Raffles, remain for another six months.

The pod aims to reduce the amount of crime and disorder by getting people away from the area as quickly as possible.

Interested parties, including Cllr Chris Williams, Xscape, Thames Valley Police, the Safer Communities Partnership and taxi firms, believe the pod is so necessary that they have lodged an appeal with the planning inspectorate to have the council’s decision overturned.

> Although the pod is a very unattractive building it serves a real purpose in bringing order to chaos on a Friday and Saturday nights

– Cllr Chris Williams

Cllr Williams said: “Although the pod is a very unattractive building it serves a real purpose in bringing order to chaos on a Friday and Saturday nights.

“We felt we needed two more years to create a more permanent and better looking pod.

“I was surprised and disappointed the application was turned down.”

Conniburrow set to become a safer neighbourhood

CONNIBURROW is the latest estate to be introduced to a Safer Neighbourhoods scheme which aims to combat fear of crime.

Local police officers, councillors and other members of the Milton Keynes Community Safety Partnership will be on hand to speak to residents and promote the scheme at Conniburrow Boulevard on Thursday, June 28 between 2pm and 6pm.

The programme, which has been running successfully in Olney and on the Lakes Estate in Bletchley for more than two years, will be rolled out to all local communities in Milton Keynes by next April.

It aims to encourage better communication between police and the communities they work with so officers and other public agencies can respond to the issues which directly affect residents.

Weird, wacky and unwise – firefighters have to deal with the strangest things

MOST of the time firefighters are out tackling fires or giving safety advice to the community.

But every now and then, they get a job that makes even the firefighters themselves raise an eyebrow.

One of the most memorable at Bucks Fire and Rescue Service involved separating two men who had managed to handcuff themselves together. The pair had walked themselves to the fire station, discussing how the incident had occured.

Each blamed the other, and by the time they arrived at the station they had beaten each other black and blue. Firefighters had to use specialist cutting equipment to break the handcuffs.

In another incident, a rather red-faced man came to firefighters following an intimate experiment with a metal ring. The man had managed to get a plumber's olive - which is a small metal ring used to connect tubes or pipes – stuck around his manhood.

Unable to make it budge, firefighters had to steady their hands to carefully cut the ring away without causing further damage.

Not long ago firefighters rushed out to a house fire after a member of the public spotted flames through somebody's window. The flames turned out to be orange curtains.

And just weeks ago somebody called the fire service and reported an electrical pylon that was smoking. When firefighters arrived, the 'smoke' was in fact just a large swarm of flies.

But Fraser Pearson, spokesman for Bucks Fire and Rescue Service, said: "The person thought it was smoke and did the right thing to call us. We don't want to discourage people from calling us."

There are several types of calls that fall into the category of unusual.

Mr Pearson said: "There are calls to incidents that it is not Working on a newspaper, we find out about some of the more weird and wonderful jobs that the fire service has to attend. ALICIA BABAEE talks to spokesman Fraser Pearson appropriate for a publicly-funded emergency service to attend. These can be quite time-wasting, tying up our emergency lines when people with more serious problems might be needing help.

"There are calls where people are in a bit of a fix, and need our help, but haven't suffered a fire or other emergency. We will always do our best to help people when they find themselves in difficulty, but we do sometimes have to refer them to a more appropriate organisation or person - the RSPCA, for example - so that we can be available for more pressing emergencies.

"Lastly there are calls where people deliberately waste our time, either by pretending that a fire or other emergency is taking place when there isn't one, or by being abusive to our hard-working control room staff."

Deliberate hoax calls can put people's lives in danger because they tie up resources that could be needed at a real emergency. Firefighters call these false alarm malicious (FAM) calls.

Mr Pearson added: "We take a very dim view of this type of call and work closely with the police to find out who these people are and bring them before the courts.

"When a child makes a hoax call, we sometimes play a tape of their call to school assemblies to see if anyone recognises their voice.

"If a hoax call is made from a mobile phone, we send a text saying we will arrange to have the phone cut off if there is a repeat and we do carry out this threat."

Other calls received include one from a woman who wanted them to clear snow from her driveway - who they could not help, calls asking them to retrieve things from trees - including children, cats and handbags, and calls asking them to pump out relatively small amounts of water from their homes after a washing machine malfunction or a plumbing mishap.

The fire service's plumbing equipment is not designed to deal with small amounts of water, and this type of call does not constitute a 999 emergency. They advice people to get a mop - or call a plumber.

Mr Pearson said: "Over the years a number of children have come in with unusual things attached to their heads. Bicycle padlocks appear to be quite popular at the moment. Our advice is that it's best not to carry out this type of experiment.

"We often have to release people who have got part of their body stuck in something but are in no real danger of being badly injured. We recently had to help a woman whose arm was stuck in one of the pockets of a pool table."

Another man called in worrying about a flame in his kitchen. He could see it towards the back of some sort of cabinet attached to a wall. It turned out to be the pilot light of his boiler.

Calls from people who genuinely think something is wrong only to discover all is well are known as 'false alarms with good intent' or a FAGI.

Mr Pearson added: "We always say 'If in doubt, call us out', so we are more than happy to help these people and put their minds at rest."

Car thief caught yellow-handed

A SUSPECTED car thief was caught yellow-handed wearing kitchen gloves after crashing into a jeweller's shop in Newport Pagnell.

The driver of a stolen silver Mercedes, wearing yellow Marigolds, crashed through the window of Charles Andrew in the High Street in the e (June 14).

The car was reported stolen by the owner just after 1am after she saw the thief drive away from her home in Aspley Guise.

Police caught up with the vehicle at Junction 14 of the M1, heading off the roundabout towards Newport Pagnell.

A chase ensued, ending with the driver losing control on a mini roundabout and colliding with the jewellers at 1.11am.

Paul Ingoe, manager at the Cannon pub in the High Street, said he saw the incident from his flat above the pub as he was woken by police sirens.

"My girlfriend and I jumped up and looked out of the window, and just glimpsed the end of the car as it screeched over the roundabout and went straight into the jewellers," he said.

"A man jumped out of the passenger seat – at first I thought there were two people in the car but then I realised it was because the air bag had gone off.

"The driver had yellow kitchen gloves on, obviously because of finger prints.

"He started to run off but the police got hold of him."

Mr Ingoe said the car had gone straight through the metal shutters that protected the shop.

"There were jewels everywhere," he said.

"It was quite hairy really because if he had been turning right instead of left the car would have come into the pub."

A 26-year-old man has been charged with burglary and aggravated vehicle taking.

■ Police are appealing for witnesses, call DC Ian Roberts on 08458 505505.

Gotcha: These pictures were taken by the manager of the Cannon pub moments after the accident occurred

Gordon gains new body in six weeks

No pain, no gain, er well loss actually: Godon Passee is worth the weight

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A FATHER of two has transformed his body by taking part in a challenge organised by a men's magazine.

Gordon Passee, 41, of Lily Hill, Olney, was one of four plucky Men's Health readers who took part in the contest.

The readers were pitched up against four out-of-shape staffers from the magazine to see which team could get themselves the fittest in six weeks.

A gruelling diet and exercise programme saw Mr Passee shedding 3.4kg in weight, decreasing his body fat by 7.3 per cent, and trimming 7cm from his stomach.

Prior to the challenge, he did no exercise at all.

The project manager, who works for Ramasis, said: "I came across the challenge purely by accident while searching the web because I had made a new year's resolution to get fitter.

"One of the highlights for me was that it rekindled my interest in cooking.

"I was surprised to feel really guilty about throwing back two takeaways, KFC one night and Chinese the next, but when I think back to when this would be in my normal diet with no exercise, I shudder.

"One of the instructors in the gym asked me if I was going to carry on with the workouts now that the challenge is over.

"I told him it's part of my routine now and I'd miss it if I stopped."

The other members of the public to take part included a lapsed gym goer, an enthusiastic drinker and a very thin man. Mr Passee pipped staff journalist Wesley Doyle to the post, losing more weight and more inches.

He set up a blog so that his friends could keep an eye on his progress and motivate him.

A spokesman for Men's Health said: "Each participant was looking to improve their fitness for different reasons so they all had different goals.

"Gordon's aims were to add muscle to his frame and blitz his belly, which he was able to achieve .

"Through a rigorous diet and gruelling exercise programme, Gordon was able to completely transform his shape and vastly improved his body weight."

Mr Passee appears in the July issue of the magazine which is on sale now.

Burglar's double strike at old folk

Thief used the same story at two homes in space of half an hour

A DISTRACTION burglar struck twice in half an hour in an attempt to con elderly residents.

The thief started 'work' at 1.30pm on Thursday, June 7, in Broad Street, Newport Pagnell, when he knocked on the door of a disabled resident and said that his children had broken her fence and offered to fix it for her.

The woman invited him into the house and while there he asked her if she could change a £20 note.

When she told him she did not keep money in the house he quickly left.

Thirty minutes later the same man called at a house in Church Street, Wolverton, again claiming his children had broken their fence.

While inside he again asked for change and the elderly home owners looked in a jar.

Moments later he was found rummaging around in the lounge and hastily left with the jar, containing £40 that was being collected for Willen Hospice.

Police described the offender as a white man in his 30s, between 5ft 8ins and 5ft 10ins tall, and slim.

He has short mousey brown hair and wore a dark zipped jacket.

He has an Irish accent and at one point in the conversation said he was from Dublin.

PC Kelli Smith said: "This was a particularly cowardly crime.

"The offender took advantage of these elderly people to trick his way into their houses.

"My message to people is please, please do not let unannounced callers into your home.

"If someone calls unannounced ask them to come back later when you have someone with you.

"If they claim to be from a company ask them for identification."

Anyone with information should contact PC Smith on 0845 8 505 505 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Mayor Mike to look cool in shades

MK Mayor Mike Barry will be helping to promote eye health when he dons sunglasses to join in The Guide Dogs for the Blind Association's Shades Day.

He will join thousands of young people and adults all over the country, who will put on their shades, sun visors and sun hats to raise awareness of the need to protect their eyes when they are outside during the day.

Shades Day is a national event run by the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association, to promote eye-care and health.

It is very important for everyone, particularly children, to protect their eyes from the sun by wearing shades and/or a visor or hat.

Exposure to sunlight can lead to certain eye conditions, such as cataracts or age-related macular degeneration.

Research has shown that spending five or more hours outside every day in the summertime during your teens and early adult years increases your risk of long-term damage to the eyes.

Cllr Barry will meet local guide dog owner Adam Tebbutt, and his dog Yeoman next Wednesday at the Civic Offices.

He said: "Shades Day is a fantastic way to both raise money for Guide Dogs and to highlight the importance of wearing your sunglasses."

Art aims for fewer falls for older folk

ART for health's sake is encouraging workers in residential homes to be more aware of how everyday furnishings can pose tripping risks to older people.

Training sessions using pictures and art works is being held to capture the imagination of care home staff in understanding just how different textures and materials can heighten the risk of falling for infirm elderly people in their care.

The training programme is being run by MK for Health and is being funded by Milton Keynes Council, PCT and nursing home company Excelcare.

The course uses art to make staff more aware of how everyday items, such as bed sheets and carpets, when made of unsuitable materials can add to the risk of falling to older people.

To launch the initiative Excelcare is contributing £7,500 towards the training of its staff who look after many older people in local care homes such as The Willows and the soon to open nursing home in Castlemead Court, Newport Pagnell.

The training programme was aunched at the new Castlemead Court Care Centre on Thursday.

John Heseltine, council social work manager, said: "Falls pose a serious risk to health in older people and as a council we are responding to try and reduce that risk.

"The arts based training programme is just one way we are tackling this health risk. We also run advice sessions and falls clinics to those people who have in the past had a tendency to fall because they are infirm on their feet."

During March 2006 to April 2007, 822 older people were referred to the falls prevention programme and these were mainly women between the ages of 80 to 89 years.

Cllr Irene Henderson, council cabinet member responsible for social care, said: "It should not be underestimated just how serious a risk to health a fall can be for an older person.

"That is why we as a council view our partnership work with other care agencies in setting up the the falls prevention programme as very important service to improve the well being among older people."

All that are needed are 501 willing volunteers, who are ready to turn both cheeks and get a whole new look.

So, if you're ready for a serious make-over that will, fingers crossed, make you one of the cream of the crop –get yourself to Campbell Park for 3pm on Saturday June 23 and let face painting commence!

THE COMEDY CLUB

City Limits CMK
Thursday, June 21

ANOTHER night of rib achingly fantastic stand-up comedy is coming to City Limits, tomorrow night.

The club has three brilliant acts on the bill.

First up is mad, hard-drinking ginger-haired Scotsman, Brian Higgins. A favourite with students, he manages to both ignore and play up to the stereotype to laugh both with and at it, in a spell-binding set that covers everything from a 'loony childhood', his former days as a paramedic (honest), as well as life's ups and downs in an always topical set. Described as the 'people's favourite comedian' by The Stage combined with his energetic delivery, he never fails to deliver the goods.

Next Is Eastender Eddy Brimson. A self-confessed former football hooligan before turning his hands to better use as a writer and comedian, Eddy has written a host of amusing anecdotal books, penned and hosted a top three selling video Teargas and Tantrums, and is also a regular 'talking head' for numerous radio and TV shows on subjects as diverse as football, dodgy builders and sexy baldness.

And finally, like a mad Phil Daniels, Dave Hadingham is a bull-dog of a comedian, and the animal allegories don't stop there. In an affectionately, snarling, ranting and raving set, Dave is not afraid to make you laugh about anything (remember the dogs). At his best in the live arena, Dave's TV CV is not bad either, having worked alongside the likes of Jonathan Ross and Jack Doherty.

Tickets £12. Members £10. Over 18s. Doors Open 7.15pm, showtime 8.30pm. Ticket Hotline: 01908 295200 or 01908 295201.

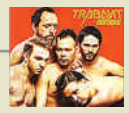
EMOTIONAL
Trabant (album)



WHAT'S this? An album that's only 34 minutes long? I've got singles that run longer than that!

Mind you, to be fair, it does grab your attention right from the off. Galloping horses followed by a two minute instrumental, aptly called Overture as it turns out.

It all sounds very grand, sweeping and majestic, which is everything the next track (Maria) is not.

Pretty much everything that wasn't in Overture is chucked in here, namely drums, guitars and a singer who sounds like he's having his limbs removed with the aid of almost, but not quite, the minimum required dose of anaesthetic.

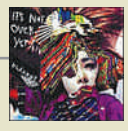
Those two tracks pretty much set the scene – you don't know what you're going to get from one track to the next. One minute they're funky, the next they're slowing things right down, and another they're almost going disco, all the time sounding like a heavy metal band that discovered keyboards and computers long before guitars – not that that's a bad thing.

And that's the thing, they do sound utterly unique, there's no getting away from it, but... one problem is that although there are ten tracks running for just 34 minutes in total, one or two tracks actually go on a bit longer than is necessary – Nasty Boy and I Love You Why? in particular.

Another is that they're constantly threatening to go over the top, which is no bad thing as long as you know how far is too far, and the ending of Emotional Meltdown is just a bit too far. However, this isn't all bad news you know. Oh no, towards the end of the album there's a track called The One which hits the nail firmly on the head – it's pure electronic goodness, it doesn't do anything it shouldn't, it's not too long and quite rightly, it's out on single too.

When it comes down to it though, this album may be short, but by heck it makes a change to the usual and more power to Trabant for that.

IT'S NOT OVER YET
Klazons



THE three and a half minute running time of this literally crawls by.

Trabant's music made me think, but as I was listening to this insipid flat-packed pop ditty I could feel my IQ steadily dropping.

I would suggest disposing of the CD by way of a microwave, but I think that'd be letting it off lightly.

A NEVER ENDING DREAM
Cascada

NOW, this is just plain weird. I remember the original (by Grace, of course), and this is almost nothing like it. It's a decent cover version in which the Klaxons take the song to one side and say, 'Song, meet Mr Guitar and Mr Drumkit. I don't think you've met before, these are real instruments'.

SHAME ON YOU
Andrea Corr

IT'S rather ironic that the Corrs were at their peak in the late 90s, because this sounds like the record company's waited since then to release this song. It's a similar dance/pop song that the Corrs used to put out until they released Irresistable and blew it big time, all very radio-friendly with only the singing to help it stand out.

SUMMER LIFE

DANSBOROUGH CHORUS
Summer Concert – Handel's Saul
Woburn Parish Church
Saturday, June 23
THE group's tradition is to create a little summer magic by combining a choral masterpiece with bring-your-own strawberries and champagne in the interval.

Conductor Ian Smith said: "Handel single-handedly created the dramatic English oratorio genre, partly out of the existing operatic tradition, and partly by the power of his musical imagination.

"First performed in 1739, Saul tells the Biblical legend of the fated Israelite king and the changing destinies of his son Jonathan and the future King David. It sets the standard for musical story-telling, and provides a tasty dish of intrigue, jealousy, revenge, death and romance in fact, it's something of a Baroque soap opera!"

The choir will be accompanied by the Milton Keynes City Orchestra, and the soloists are Alison Smart (soprano), Katherine Bond (soprano), Joseph Cornwell (tenor), James Huw Jeffries (counter tenor) and Ben Bevan (baritone).

Tickets are priced £17 and £13 for reserved seats, and £8 unreserved, with concessions available for senior citizens and students. The evening starts at 7.30pm. Bookings can be made via the Box Office tel: 01908 583460, or website: http://www.danesborough.org.uk

Russell's Love & Relationship Horoscopes

Aries (Mar21-Apr20)
Over the next few days family events could easily fall short of your high expectations so be prepared to change your plans at a moment's notice. If you have just moved house or you are setting up home with a partner, it will take time to settle into new routines and adapt to new circumstances. Call me on the Aries advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you will need to keep a second string to your bow and an alternative plan up your sleeve over the next few days.

Taurus (Apr21-May21)
Not for the first time this month, money matters feature strongly. You're thinking about getting your finances in order rather than actually making any definite moves. Call me on the Taurus line 09065 504 342 to hear why a cautious approach towards any changes is the most sensible one. You want to do something definite to make your future more secure but you aren't sure what so it's best to play it safe and plan carefully than make spontaneous decisions.

Gemini (May22-June21)
A new project may be postponed or even cancelled because it won't be financially viable to go ahead. Someone's behaviour will cause you frustration and resentment and it won't be easy to stay polite and diplomatic. Call me on the Gemini advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you should take your time if you are thinking of making any changes in your life or you could find yourself jumping into the deep end and struggling to find a lifeline!

Cancer (June22-July23)
You're driving yourself hard yet you don't seem to be making much progress. Keep trying to make your personal life more secure but don't expect instant results. Call me on the Cancerian advice line 09065 504 342 to hear how someone is starting to abuse your kind and generous nature by piling on the pressure and why you'll need to be firm with them and not let them distract you from what's important and profitable for you.

Leo (July24-Aug23)
People want your opinions at work. Loved ones want your time and attention at home. On top of all this, social invitations keep arriving. Everyone wants a piece of you and there's no escape from these constant demands. Call me on the Leo line 09065 504 342 to hear why sometimes you have to be cruel to be kind and make time for yourself by leaving people to their own devices and standing back and watching what happens.

Virgo (Aug24-Sept23)
Call me on the Virgo line 09065 504 342 to hear why you this is not a good week for launching new professional projects. Although people are keen on some ideas, no definite decisions are made and a lot of plans are still very vague. Trying to push your ideas through regardless will be a waste of time and effort. This is all due to a lack of planning and organisation. Why not agree to leave it until other people take a more practical approach to these affairs?

Libra (Sept24-Oct23)
In your dealings with arrogant, pompous people, you will only change their attitude if you show the more assertive side of your nature. The situation doesn't matter, neither does the issue. What's important is that you let your views be known and don't allow yourself to be shouted down. Call me on the Libran advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you must keep your wits about you and stay determined not to let your views and values be sidelined by browbeating bullies.

Scorpio (Oct24-Nov22)
Be careful when dealing with people who work at a slower pace as trying to urge them on might also cause an unpleasant backlash. This isn't a good time to force issues. Call me on the Scorpio advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you should be thinking seriously about making long term financial changes. Taking on a loan, mortgage or pension or totally reorganising your cash structures to make things easier in the future are possibilities.

Sagittarius (Nov23-Dec21)
You will feel obliged to help a friend or colleague who is struggling at the moment. The trouble is, other people will have a similar idea and it could turn out to be a case of too many cooks! Call me on the Sagittarian advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you may need to create a little space in your life so you can do your own thing and deal with all the pressing issues and everyday concerns of your own life rather than everybody else's.

Capricorn (Dec22-Jan20)
You will have to knuckle down and focus if you want to achieve an important aim or ambition. One particular ship may float away over the horizon unless you are prepared to go out and pilot it in. Call me on the Capricorn advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you should put other issues aside and concentrate on one thing at a time over the next few days for the more methodical you are, the more successful you'll be.

Aquarius (Jan21-Feb19)
You will surprise yourself at how well you manage when tackling a task you've never done before. You may even pick it up better than those who have been doing the same thing for years! Call me on the Aquarian advice line 09065 504 342 to find out why you should be joining the technological revolution and even putting yourself at the cutting edge of change and development. Your energy levels are high and your brainpower is brilliant.

Pisces (Feb20-Mar20)
Know your priorities. Your partner and family should come first. There's little chance you will be socialising unless for a specific reason. You put energy and time into domestic affairs but wearing yourself out will do no one any good, least of all yourself! Call me on the Pisces advice line 09065 504 342 to hear why you must try hard not to get involved in other people's troubles and leave friends to sort out their own problems while you get on with your own life.

It's a sign of the times – but smokers get City Square deal

SHOPPERS are being told where they can and cannot smoke at thecentre:mk

Although new legislation on smoking in public places doesn't come into effect until July 1, thecentre:mk is starting to gear-up to inform customers where they will and will not be permitted to smoke.

Signs will be put up in the next few weeks to indicate the no-smoking areas and direct people to the permissible zones, but no enforcement will be made until July 1.

In line with legislation, thecentre:mk, which has already been a no-smoking building for more than six years, will simply be extending the no-smoking zones to include doorways and entrances to the building as well as the partially open-air area between the two shopping centres – Midsummer Lane.

Queens Court, the fountain courtyard will also no longer be a smoking area following a policy decision by centre management.

Customers and staff from thecentre:mk will be directed instead to City Square, (outside Door One near M&S) a specially designated smoking area.

Robert Goodman, thecentre:mk's Centre Director says "As a shopping management company we face fines if we fail to display signs or prevent people on our premises from smoking."

Martin Hindson, Centre Manager of Midsummer Place Shopping Centre says ''At Midsummer Place Shopping Centre we will ensure that we comply with all aspects of the ban. We ask our customers and staff to adhere to the new regulations and assist us in making Midsummer Place a pleasant and safer environment for everyone."

The new law is being introduced to protect employees and the public from the harmful effects of secondhand smoke and it will soon be against the law to smoke in virtually all enclosed public places and workplaces.

Fagged out: thecentre:mk's Centre director, Robert Goodman and operations manager Dan Murphy with manager of Midsummer Place Shopping Centre, Martin Hindson and the no smoking area sign

Are you the best dressed or an IT geek?

THE challenge is on to find the best dressed IT worker.

Milton Keynes-based IT recruitment firm, Veritas IT, has co-opted the support of local retailer, Craig Anderson Menswear, in its quest to find the 'Best dressed IT director and manager of the year'.

"We launched these award last month as we were fed up of the 'geeky' tag with which the industry is often associated," says Jason Giller, managing director of Veritas IT.

"Such an outdated perception does little to improve the image of the sector and as a consequence it still suffers from marginal IT Board representation and, just as bad, few young adults seem willing to join a profession with such a negative image."

Craig Anderson has stepped forward to lend its support by putting up a prize for the award; vouchers to be spent in its outlet in central Milton Keynes.

Craig said: "When Jason talked to us about these awards we were delighted to offer our commitment. We offer a very personalised, almost tailored, fitting service here and our clients trust us to help them select and manage their wardrobes. You'd be amazed how many British men still struggle with the concept of 'smart casual'.

The first heat of the awards takes place on June 26 at the Holiday Inn in Milton Keynes and any IT manager or director who wants to enter or nominate a colleague should email bestdressed@veritas-it.co.uk

More than a million people every month call the NHS Direct advice line for information and guidance and we need energetic and enthusiastic people to join our Health Advisor team to continue to provide our first class service.

As a Health Advisor you will be responsible for the prioritisation of clinical symptoms, supported by in house software, throughout a 24 hour period. When someone calls with a problem, it's you they'll talk to first. So putting them at their ease and getting the right information is vital.

Excellent communication and customer care skills go without saying, not to mention a keen eye for detail. While customer service or call centre experience would be useful, it's not essential if you're helpful, friendly and computer literate.

In return we can offer a friendly, supportive culture - and a full training programme to help you make the most of your talents in addition to a wide range of flexible working options, final salary indexed-linked pension, and up to 33 days annual leave.

For more information including shift patterns, please contact Keely Taylor on 01908 259828.

- For an application pack or to find out the location of your nearest NHS Direct centre, call our recruitment hotline on 0845 6001855. Alternatively, electronic applications can be completed online at www.jobs.nhs.uk or you can request an application pack by emailing nationalrecruitment@nhsdirect.nhs.uk More information about NHS Direct is available on our website www.nhsdirect.nhs.uk

Closing date for applications: 28 June 2007.
Interviews will take place: w/c 9 & 16 July 2007.

If you have not heard within three weeks of the closing date please assume that you have not been successful for selection. We recognise and encourage the potential of a diverse workforce and welcome applications from all sections of the community and appoint on merit.

Woughton Parish

DRINKING CONTROL AREA

A Police Officer can require you not to drink alcohol in this designated public place, failure to do so may result in:-

The confiscation of the container of alcohol and/or the issue of a Penalty Notice of Disorder - £50 or £80

Or

A Fine of £500

(Maximum Penalty)

Thames Valley Police · Woughton Parish Council · Milton Keynes Council

Milton Keynes Council, Thames Valley Police and Woughton Parish Council working in Partnership

SCHEDULE

The public highway, footways, pedestrian areas and other areas to which the public have free rights of access within the Parish boundaries.

If you see the sign in the picture in the Woughton Parish area of Milton Keynes it means that you are in the Woughton Parish Drinking Control Area where public drinking of alcohol can be stopped by the Police as they have new powers to require a person to surrender the unopened container of alcohol in their possession or opened containers that they are drinking from. This includes alcohol which has been mixed with soft drinks and placed in a container such as a plastic bottle.

If the person refuses to hand-over the alcohol they may be arrested and fines of up to £500 can also be levied against offenders. The Drinking Control Area will provide increased powers for the Police to deal with nuisance and antisocial behaviour whilst still allowing the responsible consumption of alcohol in this public open space.

The Council has introduced this Drinking Control Area to combat the increase in the number of people consuming alcoholic drinks in this locality and whose behaviour has then become anti-social and has been perceived to be threatening to other users.

On occasions the behaviour of these drinkers cannot legally be considered to be "drunk and disorderly", so the Police did not have the powers to intervene. However, the new Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001 came into force in September 2001 and has enabled local authorities to make an order where they are satisfied that nuisance, annoyance or disorder is associated with the consumption of alcohol in any public place.

Following public consultation this area has been considered and as from Wednesday 1st August 2007 the Drinking Control Area will be in force. A map showing the area can be seen at Thames Valley Police - Central Milton Keynes Police Station, Milton Keynes Council, The Civic Offices - Environmental Health Division and the Parish Office, 33/37 Farthing Grove, Netherfield, Milton Keynes. Signs are to be erected in the area in conjunction with Woughton Parish Council.

Chunky and funky Materia – all you'd ever want from a mini MPV

DAIHATSU'S new funky Materia is set to hit the sjowrooms in July.

The distinctive design with mini MPV practicality including sliding and reclining rear seat with a 60/40 slpit and the interior pasenger space matches a large family car similar to the Vauxhall Meriva.

A lively 1.5 litre engine gives 46.3 mpg while both manual and auto comfortably exceed 100 mph top speed for relaxed long-distance touring.

The interior features acrylic black panels, central instruments and blue lighting for armrests and circular front door speakers

Outstanding standard equipment includes power steering, ABS with EBD, driver, passenger and side airbags, air-conditioning, four electric windows, CD tuner with six speakers, remote central door locking, driver's seat height adjustment, alloy wheels and front fog lamps.

In fact, the boxy yet wide and squat design theme with flared wheelarches and minimum overhangs has created a cult-following in Japan – and now the United States.

Competitors in the UK and Europe are the similar-sized but move conservatively-styled Renault Modus and Vauxhall Meriva all are compact and versatile with a high-command driving position that especially appeals to women.

However, the Materia's owners are expected to include style-conscious young families seeking a distinctive yet practical design plus older couples who appreciate the Materia's low running costs, manoeuvrability and easy access thanks to wide-opening and deep doors.

The front design is quite imposing with a chunky, deep bonnet and chiselled look to the headlamps and narrow but wide grille, cut into the deep bumper.

The Materia's rear also emphasises its width, strength and stability, emphasised by a swooping, low-mounted panel that connects the narrow rear lamps which gently curve over each rear wheelarch.

From the side, large 15 ins diameter spoked alloy wheels, linked by deep side skirts, further reinforce the message of stability.

The new Materia 1.5, which costs £10,995 on-the-road in manual form and £11,795 as an automatic, boasts an especially high specification.

The only factory option is metallic paint at £325.

Lions on sound footing

MK Lions have announced that their association with Marshall Amplification, has now been extended for three further seasons and will continue till May 2010.

Lions Chief Executive, and Head Coach, Vincent Macaulay was ecstatic announcing the deal.

Macaulay said: "I really don't know what to say, to have the work we do in the community and the development we have made as a professional team recognised in this manner makes all the hard work worthwhile."

"I am so grateful to Marshall Managing Director, Victoria Marshall and all the directors at Marshall for believing in the Lions brand and our new future in the most fantastic of arena's." he added.

Marshall, the rock icon formed by Dr Jim Marshall OBE back in 1962, moved from London to Milton Keynes, just 600 yards from the new Stadium MK.

Victoria Marshall said: "People know that we are committed to sport in Milton Keynes as seen by our involvement in football, boxing and athletics, our involvement in Basketball so far has surprised us, the passion and enthusiasm of all at the Lions is infectious and we are pleased to help the club realise it's potential."

Lions Chairman, Christine Thompson said: "The British Basketball League is making great strides right now, so many new and exciting things are happening, our partnership with ULEB, the tremendous growth and the stability of clubs is something we are happy to add to with this extensive sponsorship, the most significant we at the Lions have ever been associated with and we thank Marshall Amplification for their belief."

Marshall MK Lions will be announcing Season Ticket information in the next fortnight with special offers for groups and young people.

A date is also expected soon for a Summer at the Stadium where fans and sponsors can have a basketball day and a tour of the new stadium complex.

MOTOR RACING

Osborne back on track

Olney driver mounts podium four times in five starts after change to single seaters

OLNEY-BASED racing driver, Joe Osborne, has put his career right back on track.

The ex-Formula BMW driver made the change from single seat racing to sports cars at the start of 2007 and has made an immediate impact in the high profile Texaco Ginetta Championship.

After five rounds the 18-year-old is leading the championship having made the podium on four out of five occasions.

He scored his first out right victory last weekend at the Snetterton race track after claiming two pole positions. Osborne's victory was hard fought in this very exciting series when starting from pole position he dropped to seventh only to fight back to take a well earned win.

The maiden victory was even more impressive as this was the first time the young racer had competed at the Norfolk circuit.

The Texaco Ginetta Championship is the largest single make series in the country with up to 40 cars competing at each round.

Osborne's early success has surprised the regular Ginetta drivers as he only tested the car for the first time in March and had completed very little testing before starting the racing season in April.

Osborne knows it is early days, but he is confident he can win the championship outright at the first attempt.

He said: "There is extra pressure when you are leading a championship but I have experienced leading and winning a championship before so I know I can do it."

The young driver won a Junior British Kart championship aged 15.

If he wins the championship it could open doors to allow him to progress to the next level of sport or saloon car racing and his target of racing in the British Touring Car Series or possibly competing in the US.

The close competition between the drivers and the unpredictable race winners has helped raise the profile of the series.

To further promote the series there is a dedicated 30 minute programme on SKY after every round.

The race series which supports the Formula 3 and British GT visits Silverstone on August, 11 and 12.

Mark Webber in Formula One action at the USA Grand Prix on Sunday

Webber off the mark

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

MARK Webber finally got off the mark for Red Bull Racing as he collected his first points for the MK outfit in Indianapolis, but once again David Coulthard missed out.

While most eyes were on Championship leader Lewis Hamilton and his battle with team mate Fernando Alonso, the Red Bull drivers had a battle of their own against Toyota.

It was always going to be a fight between the teams with Webber sitting ninth on the grid just behind Jarno Trulli and Coulthard one place ahead of Ralf Schumacher in eleventh place.

But the scrap between Coulthard and Schumacher was short lived as both drivers saw their race end on the first corner when the German's attacking mindset saw him collied with the Scotsman and neither were able to continue the race.

The 36-year-old has retired from five of the seven races this season and will be hoping for better fortunes with the British Grand Prix just two weeks away.

Coulthard said: "That was a disappointing race, I only got to turn one.

"I kept a steady line off the start into the first corner, making sure I left space on the inside to keep out of trouble.

"Watching the replay, it seems Ralf came together with another car behind me.

"That rotated Ralf's car and he speared into the side of mine, which caused a lot of damage. It burst the oil cooler, so that was the end of my race."

Red Bull's frustrations at being down to one driver, through no fault of their own, were soon forgotten when Webber began to make inroads into the race as he fought with Trulli for a points position.

Given the reliability problems associated with the RB3, there would have been a huge sigh of relief coming from the Red Bull garage when both of Webber's pit stops went smoothly.

But there was a nervy moment when the Aussie driver tried to overtake Trulli on the first turn and instead bounced up onto the curb and across the grass, narrowly missing another car.

It was the first race this season that the RB3 finished a race unscathed and earned Webber a highly valued two points.

Webber said: "The race for me was pretty much a scrap with Jarno from start to finish.

"I would have liked slightly better car balance in the middle stint, but it's good to get two points in the bag.

"Of course, you always want more – more down force, more reliability, more speed – but hopefully those things will continue to come and we can look forward to more points finishes like this in the future."

Red Bull are now seventh in the Constructors Championship, two points clear of Super Aguri and Webber moved into fourteenth place in the Drivers Championship, while Coulthard has slipped down to twelfth.

CRICKET

Tubbs is unbeaten as Brickhill close in on second-placed Bray

MOST cricket fixtures were hit by rain with only a handful of games taking place throughout the leagues.

Division's two and five of the Morrants Four Counties League were washed out completely.

MORRANTS FOUR COUNTIES LEAGUE

DIVISION ONE

WINSLOW Town won their first game of the season against North Crawley to push away from bottom placed Mentmore.

After losing the toss and being put into bat Crawley's Mark Clay looked in top form as he set about building a tough total for Winslow to chase.

The opening batsman, despite losing two partners at the other end, looked steady at the crease scoring 59 runs from 78 deliveries before being dismissed by Paul Stolworthy.

Alongside Clay's innings only two batsmen made it to double figures as Crawley crashed all out for 136, Stolworthy the thorn in Crawley's side as he took 5-20 in just four overs.

Winslow also looked to be struggling with the bat as three of their top order were dismissed for just 13 runs.

Paul Thomlinson and James Gaskins both impressed with knocks of 30, but it was Iain Herbertson, batting at seven, whose cameo appearance won the game with an unbeaten 42 from 41 balls.

NEWPORT Pagnell were dealt a seven wicket defeat at the hands of Great Brickhill.

Once again Aussie all-rounder Shannon Tubb starred with bat and ball as his side dominated play from the offset.

The bowling display from Brickhill left Newport in a spin as Tubb took 4-14 while Stuart Cooper also finished with figures of 4-24 as Newport were dismissed for 95.

Brickhill raced to the set total, losing three wickets on the way, with Tubb's unbeaten 55 leading them to victory.

Brickhill earned 25 points from the win and closed the gap between them and second placed Eaton Bray to two points.

DIVISION THREE

SHENLEY Church End took the wet weekend as their chance to move up the table into third place after their eight wicket win against Milton Bryan.

Milton Bryan's innings were cut short before they could post a meaningful total with Anton De Beer taking 3-15 to dismiss them for 107.

The chase was never in doubt for Shenley with De Beer's 85 not out guiding them to a valued 25 points.

OPEN University remain at the top of the table despite their game against Eaton Bray being abandoned midway through.

The hard working OU side had put an end to Bray's innings with just 132 to chase, but shortly after making their way to the crease the game was cancelled and OU took 15 points while Bray took 12.

DIVISION FOUR

THE only game to take place in the division, between North Crawley and Stoke Hammond was also abandoned.

Crawley looked to be on for a win after they finished their innings on 257-5 and had Hammond struggling on 49-5 before the game was pulled.

Crawley took 17 points and remain in third while Hammond picked up 12 points to stay in second place.

DIVISION SIX

IVINGHOE and Pitstone reached 160-9 before their game against Newport Pagnell was abandoned.

They took 13 points from the game while Newport picked up 14 to move up to fourth.

SECOND placed Turvey earned 12 points when their game was cut short against Aston Clinton, who took 14 points.

CHERWELL LEAGUE

MK Park seconds picked up a vital victory at home to Kidlington seconds.

Park were put into bat on a wet wicket and were up against it when the first three wickets fell cheaply.

Despite two interruptions for rain, captain Paddy Rathbone and James Clark got the team back on course with a partnership of 70.

Clark continued the good work with his maiden league 50, Dionne Warwick compiled a useful 12 and Sai Yogeswarren, in this his first game of the year, smashed a quick fire 26 not out.

Park were more than happy with the target set for Kidlington on what was a wicket that need application.

Roger Hobbs put the ball in the right place to pick up three early wickets.

Opening bowler Raza Ifthikar bowled a good spell without reward but it was Jude Ramauadanpuue who picked up the wickets, taking four in all.

Off spinner Kieron Sear mopped up the tail with three wickets with Ken Hollis taking the last catch to end a good days fielding, taking three catches. Park were winners by 50 runs with nearly ten overs to spare.

NORTHANTS LEAGUE

A HEAVY downfall played havoc with Stony Stratford's game against Rushden Town when the game was abandoned after just 12.2 overs.

Stony must have felt their luck was in when they won the toss for the first time this season and decided to bowl, but Tim Lake and Darren Harrison quickly added 55 runs to the scoreboard before the decision was made to abandon the game.

MK pair lose out

BADMINTON'S Gail Emms and Nathan Robertson suffered defeat with England in the Sudirman Cup semi-final as they lost 3-2 to Indonesia.

The Milton Keynes pair had given England the lead when they won their mixed doubles game against 2003 title holders Widianto Nova and Lilyana Natsir 20-22, 22-20, 19-21.

England then went 2-0 up when Tracey Hallam won her singles game against Maria Kristin, before the side suffered defeat in the men's singles event.

But European champions Emms and Donna Kellogg could not stop Greysia Polii and Vita Marissa as they fell to their first defeat to the Indonesian girls this year, losing 21-18, 21-16.

With honours even, the place in the final was left resting on the men's doubles but world silver medallists Robert Blair and Anthony Clark lost to Canada's Wijaya and Kido Markis 21-17, 21-14.

Earlier in the week Emms and Robertson had squeezed past their Thailand counterparts, winning the game 19-21, 21-16, 21-17 after recovering from a shaky start which saw them lose the first set when Robertson served into the net.

England team manager Ian Wright said: "There is no disappointment at all. Everybody gave it their best effort and nobody expected us to be there in the semi-final in the first place and be 2-0 up against Indonesia.

"It was a great team effort so I have absolutely nothing to be disappointed about."

Sevens up

MORE than 200 rugby players are set to take part in Olney Rugby Club's first ever rugby sevens tournament, taking place on Saturday July 7.

Teams are coming from as far afield as Wales to join in the competition, which will see the winning team awarded the inaugural Olney Rugby Sevens Cup.

In addition to the rugby there is off pitch entertainment with inflatable bungee runs and kicking games provided by the RFU, and rugby coaching sessions for children.

The bar and barbecue will be open all day and people going along will have the chance to purchase kit from a Raging Bull merchandise stand.

It is hoped the day will be such a success that it will become an annual event in the local rugby calendar.

Supradip caution

INDIAN driver Supradip Dey Roy will return to British Rally Championship Stars 1400 Championship action when he contests round three, the Rally of the Midlands, this weekend.

Roy notched-up his first points of the season in the series on the previous round, the Jim Clark Stars Rally in May, as he finished fourth overall and currently sits in sixth place in the Stars 1400 Championship drivers' table with 15 points.

The Milton Keynes driver will return to the wheel of his own 1400cc MG ZR after using a hire car in round two and is aiming to boost his position with a strong finish on the Nuneaton-based 100-mile Tarmac rally.

"I need to be a bit cautious as I want to collect more points in the championship," the 32-year-old said.

"I'm sixth in the standings which I'm happy with but now I need to build on that and get another good result.

"I'm looking forward to it and to being back in my own car.

"I'm feeling confident as I did the rally last year and it went well. It's a good event with some great stages around Mallory Park and at the MIRA test track, which I enjoy. It's also not too far from home which makes a nice change."

The three-day event begins with a sprint stage in Hinckley town centre on Friday evening and will finish on Sunday afternoon in Nuneaton town centre.

Guv'nor surprise choice for boss

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

THE Guv'nor, Paul Ince, is set to take over at MK Dons with a decision to be announced in the next few days.

Ince was yesterday locked in talks with Chairman Pete Winkelman as they tried to iron out the finer contract details before he takes the managerial position left vacant by Martin Allen.

At the start of the week Ince emerged as the favourite for the job, overtaking high profile managers like Mike Newell and Micky Adams.

The Dons had planned to call a press conference early this morning to confirm Ince as manager, but the complications of buying the former Manchester United star out of his contract with Macclesfield has put a halt on proceedings.

The club has refused to be drawn on a name, a spokesman for MK Dons said: "We are still in the process of appointing a new manager. Admittedly this process is taking longer than we had hoped as we previously expected to be in a position to make an announcement this week.

"However, we remain confident that we can resolve this situation shortly and confirm an appointment in the near future."

The 39-year-old took over the Silkmen in October when they were rooted at the bottom of the table and guided them to safety.

Ince even made a cameo five minute appearance in the final game against Notts County to ensure they avoided relegation.

Last season's success has seen Ince become one of the most exciting young English managers, with his name amongst those being touted as a possible replacement at Man United when Sir Alex Ferguson retires.

Fans will be hoping, when he finally signs on the dotted line, he will be able to call on his contacts to bring in some big name players for the Dons promotion push next season.

Ince's expected appointment will certainly add spice to the scheduled pre-season friendly with West Ham United.

He spent four years with the Hammers and went on to make 72 appearances before joining Manchester United.

MK DONS fans will have some distance to travel as they support their side up and down the country, covering over 5,700 miles, the equivalent of flying from London to Rio de Janeiro.

When the fixture lists were announced last Thursday fans could have been forgiven for feeling a touch of deja vu, with Bury at home being the first game of the season for the second successive season.

The Dons will also end their season at their new home to the new boys of the Football League, Morecambe, similar to last year when they played host to Accrington Stanley.

Christmas will once again be a busy period with the Dons facing a journey to Notts County on Boxing Day and their longest journey, a 211 mile trip to Darlington, just three days later.

New Year's day is more forgiving with a home tie against Mansfield.

The Dons shortest journey next season will be a 38 mile trip to local rivals Wycombe Wanderers.

THE Dons have applied to the Football League for four fixtures to be rearranged to Friday night games.

They have applied for their home game against Notts County to be moved to Friday, September 7, kick-off at 7.45pm.

The home game against Lincoln City to be moved to Friday, October 12, kick-off at 7.45pm.

And the home tie against Brentford to take place on Friday, December 21, kick-off at 7.45pm.

While Lincoln City have applied for the game at Sincil Bank to take place on Friday, April 4 2008, kick-off at 7.45pm.

Dons sign three-year kit deal with Nike

NIKE'S famous swoosh will be associated with MK Dons until 2010 after the club reached a three-year kit deal with Nike's team sports retail partner Just Sport Pro Club.

As part of the deal Just Sport Pro Club will take over the running of the club's retail, opening a mega-shop at the new stadium in July.

Dons Chairman Pete Winkelman said: "The Nike brand has become synonymous with sporting excellence. It is a world-leading sports technology company that, through our partnership with Just Sport, we are now able to associate with our club. The stadium has set a benchmark for quality that can only see it associated with people who share our common goal - to achieve top class football in Milton Keynes."

The Dons are hoping to show off the kit and announce when supporters can grab their replica later this week.

■ THE Dons' Carling Cup first round will be at home to Ipswich Town.

The Championship side will be a tricky tie for the Dons, who will be hoping to mirror last years success where they knocked out Colchester and Barnsley.

And Town boss Jim Magilton is wary of the threat the Dons carry, he told the Town website: "We would rather have been at home, obviously. It's a tricky tie. They will be raring to go and looking to take a scalp from a higher division. I'm sure they will be fired up and we will have to match their desire and then look to make our ability on the ball count."

The game will take place on Tuesday, August 14 with kick off at 7.45pm.

■ GARETH Edds signed a new contract keeping him with MK Dons for a further two-years.

The Australian midfielder was offered a new deal at the end of the season.

Northampton Town had been keeping tabs on the 26-year-old, but Edds, who has made 43 appearances for the Dons, decided to extend his stay at the club.

Chairman Pete Winkelman was delighted, he said: "This is great news for the club. Gareth has been an excellent player in the three years he has been here and we are delighted that he will be staying with us."
